Occultation of Venus.

A very beautiful astronomical phenomenon was witnessed here last Saturday about eight o'clock p.m. The planet Venus was for about an hour concealed from our view by the moon coming into a direct line between that planet and the earth. The night was peculiarly favorable for such observations, being brilliantly clear. The moon was in about her first quarter; her bright crescent could easily be seen to enclose a disk more faintly expressed, which was the rest of the satellite seen in penumbra. This fainter portion of the lunar orb was slowly approaching by the bright planet till the latter seemed to come in contact with the penumbra, and soon became invisible behind it. After watching for nearly an hour the planet was seen once more behind the moon, its light near the extremity of its lower horn, looking like a sparkling gem upon the fair finger of a queen. Slowly the two bodies parted company, not to come so close together again within the life time of those who witnessed the beautiful spectacle.

The Catholic Fair.

The Catholic Fair which was held at Franklin Hall on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights was a perfect success, both socially and pecuniarily. The attendance each night was very good, especially the last night, the time appointed for making known the result of the voting. Among the visitors in attendance on the Fair were Rev. Father De Vries, of Bowling Green, Rev. Father Veale, of Nashville, and Rev. Father McNamara, of Memphis. The result of the voting for the gold cross and chain resulted as follows, the prize being awarded to Miss Mary Bolster: Miss Kate Ahearn, 328; Miss Maggie Neider, 790; Miss Mary Bolster, 1,074. The receipts of the Fair amounted, we understand, to $800.

On Wednesday last our esteemed friend and fellow-citizen, Gen. Wm. A. Quarles, sustained a heavy blow in the death of Miss Lucy Quarles, his only daughter.

This young lady was so well known in Clarksville, so endeared to a large circle of loving friends, that her name alone accorded in the mournful records of the grave will elicit tears in many a household. To her father, who cherished her as the object of a parent's love and pride, the blow will be a crushing one, and we can only trust that the universal sympathy of his many friends will afford some alleviation to his sorrows. The remains left Clarksville on Thursday's train for Columbia, Tenn. The deceased had spent a large portion of her latter days with her relatives in that city, and will at her own request slumber with them till the resurrection morning.

In noticing Cooke's splendid assortment of Christmas presents, the Tobacco Leaf takes occasion to say a few words about Charlie Cooke himself as follows:

Charlie Cooke himself is good currency. He has been passing current among the girls for the last forty years and hasn't depreciated one cent in value and we don't think he will in the next hundred years. If any young lady should get him in a trade she may be sure of getting him off at par.

With all deference to the Leaf, we think that it is high time for some lady to take Charlie who will not want to trade him off at par or below par or above par but one who will keep him for a papa to the numerous progeny which C. C. owes to his country.

On Duty.

Our young friend, Lieut. R. D. Read, after spending his furlough among his friends with much satisfaction to himself and to them, has left Clarksville for San Antonio de Bexar, in Texas, to report for duty there to Gen. Ord. His command, the Tenth Cavalry Regiment U. S. A., was when he heard from, stationed at Fort Clark, on the Rio Grande. His career will be watched with the warmest interest by a large number of friends, who anticipate great results from his known good qualities of heart and head.

Mrs. ROSENFELD has received an entire new lot of collars, cuffs, ruchings, gloves, furs, etc., for the holidays, and will sell them at reasonable prices. Her establishment is deservedly popular with the ladies, who are well acquainted with her superior taste, and her present stock of millinery goods, in which everything is of the latest style, is well calculated to increase still more her popularity. Read her advertisement.

A GRAND festival is being prepared by the members of the Methodist, Baptist and Christian Churches of New Providence for the Sunday-School scholars. A considerable amount has been subscribed by the liberal-hearted citizens of that town, and the approaching Christmas eve promises to be one of great enjoyment to the young folks.

THE first term of Prof. Creighton's writing school closed last Monday night. The premium offered by the professor for the best specimen of penmanship was won by Mr. Frank Byars, and another premium offered for the greatest improvement during the term was awarded Mr. Morgan Marr. The professor commenced his second session last Tuesday night.

We print to-day the card of Mr. George Martin, attorney at law. We have long had our eye upon George as one of the most promising among the many talented young men who have been sent off into several professions by the Southwestern Presbyterian University as an alumnus. Judging by the rhetorical efforts of his student life, we anticipate a brilliant future for him at the bar of this city so prolific in orators and statesmen.

To Correspondents.

Some of our local correspondents of late will not find their communications in our columns. We regret the necessity of omitting them, but the necessities of the highest moment both in Congress and in State Legislature demand our space to the exclusion of interesting local matter. We are not insensible to the great importance of knowing when Mrs. Potiphar gives a party, of being kept posted as to the succession of Miss Flora McIlmurray's beaux, and of knowing which of them wears burn-sides and which goat-skins, how young Mooncalf's moustache is waxing and being waxed; but there is a time for all things, and these high ethereal topics must sometimes give way to such coarser matter as the silver question, resumption and repudiation. But don't quarrel with us, ladies; your time will come again; our columns, we hope, will soon again sparkle with the repartee of S. M. A. C. and glow with the tender sentiment of I. D. A., only have patience with us, mend your pens and gather honey against the time for sweet things. Solid beef and potatoes are at present in demand.

We call the attention of delinquent taxpayers to our advertisements for sales of land. Those who are rich and have plenty of money can afford to neglect those notices, but those to whom money is any object had better come forward before the 20th of this month and settle. The only cost before the sale will be $2.50; after that the costs will be more than doubled. It is hard on a poor man to have to pay his taxes, and those who pay in time, and save costs, feel it enough; but those who put it off until the end and are forced to pay all costs, are pressed to the wall. In many instances the costs amount to three or four times the tax, and a little delay forces a poor man to pay three or four years' taxes in one. Hurry up, gentlemen; it must be done; the sooner the better. Next Wednesday, the 19th, is the last day. Don't let it pass until you have your receipt in your pocket.
